

Training trainers programme - Person-Centred reviews

This is much more than a train the trainers programme, it will equip you to:

- Train, support and develop person-centred review facilitators
- Coach new facilitators to deliver their first reviews
- Develop a range of ways to support facilitators to review their practice - both individually and in groups

You will receive information on a range of methods to train facilitators, for example:

- As a 3 day face to face course
- Through e-learning and a 2 day face-to-face course
- Through e-learning and individual coaching/co-facilitation

You will be your organisations local expert in person-centred reviews, and will be able to train, support and help implement reviews that produce outcomes to change people's lives. If you work with children or young people, we will show you how to use person-centred reviews to develop and review Education, Health and Care Plans in England or Individual Development Plans in Wales. If you are using person-centred reviews with adults we will show you how person-centred reviews comply with the Care Act, and cover how they relate to Individual Service Funds in England or Option 2 in Scotland.

The programme includes:

- 6 days of training over 6 months
- 3 webinars
- A resource pack worth over £100 (Both for children/young people or adults training)
- A range of resources that we will bespoke to your organisation - for example, preparation materials for individual, families, professionals
- An individual skype coaching session with the programme lead
- Films of reviews that you can use in your training (adults and children depending on who you are working with) that are only available to accredited trainers
- Full slide set and trainers handbook
- Person-centred reviews e-learning for a year
- Person-centred thinking tools e-learning
- Access to a private on-line Groupsite to connect and share for a year
- Price includes your first years membership to a dedicated membership site for person-centred review trainers

The places are very limited, due to the intensive and individual nature of the course. The first date is in October, and there is work required in between each of the 6 days training. You can apply if you already have experience presenting to groups/training or teaching.

Applicants will complete an application form and have a short telephone conversation with programme lead Vicky Jones.

Course is priced at the reduced rate of £1950; including materials and membership for one year to a dedicated group site if you are intending to train solely within your organisation. If organisations invest in having their own accredited trainer, every person-centred review facilitator, who is trained by them, has access to a dedicated site for review facilitators that has additional resources and discussion forums, and a monthly phone in with person-centred review leader Vicky Jones who answers questions live.

If you are a freelance trainer or part of a training or consultancy team the cost is £2950.

To do

Application form and contract

Small print

Annual membership £345 to maintain accreditation

Courses need to buy in resources for participants